Job Summary

Reporting to the Director of Video Technology, the Creative Producer (CP) collaborates with colleagues within the Office of Academic Innovation as well as faculty and instructors to develop and manage creative digital media projects. The Creative Producer will guide projects through the entire lifecycle – from concept creation and pre-production to delivery and archiving.

Core Responsibilities

1. Build and manage productive relationships with a broad range of people, including faculty, academic staff, program managers, instructional designers, etc. – closely collaborating on creative approaches to meet learning goals with digital media, setting timelines, articulating the production process and expectations, communicating issues, providing status updates, and suggesting appropriate methods for improvement.

2. Coordinate the pre-production process: work with faculty and instructors on concept development, scripts, and storyboards; create and communicate project scope and timelines; and manage deliverables within the resources allocated.

3. Coordinate the production process: schedule shoots and determine staffing needs to support them; uphold legal compliance standards and procedures; finalize deliverables with the teaching team; and post assets to internal or external media hosting platforms.

4. Organize the post-production of content and collaborate with the post-production team: editing videos, adding slides and supplemental content, and encoding video resources to the right specifications.
